beginning at the Passover through to the Rapture of the Church and what lies beyond. The conclusion of the church age, its purpose and mission, were outlined alongside historic and prophetic milestones of the Hebrew nation. Participants heard why the church of Laodicea, at the lowest point in history, was offered a worldwide invitation to the Wedding as illustrated in Matthew 25.

Pastor Altschul displayed an artists’ rendition of the inside of a church that was interrupted by the Rapture, and the moments of reality immediately after. An awkward hush swept through the convention center as participants dared to imagine what would be left on earth after God takes home His bride. And just as profound, a personal and serious message flowed through each person’s heart as Pastor Altschul laid out Matthew 7:8. He explained the serious and intimate relationship we have with Jesus, “it’s not a church experience... it’s a real life experience.”

According to Altschul, “We live in the end- time of the church age... it affects both Jew and Gentile. It is a time the church prepares herself, there’s a hunger, a consciousness, a joy and the hope expressed by Apostle Paul. Throughout many conferences across Europe and in the USA, we have begun to recognize this transition as the church prepares herself to meet her bridegroom.” The conference culminated with a personal heartfelt desire for the oil of the Holy Spirit.
